Market Overview

Fictional market dynamics — Australian Ute Segment

The data in this document is fictional and provided as a structural reference for the assessment. You may use it directly, modify it, or create entirely new content. The focus is on how you present this type of content visually and interactively — not on data accuracy.

. Audience Momentum Signals (Fictional)

Rather than traditional market-share tables, these signals describe shifts in buyer behaviour that shape how a challenger brand should position itself. All figures are illustrative.

Signal	2023	2026	Direction
Average age of first-time ute buyers	42	35	↓ Younger
Female-identifying ute intenders	14%	29%	↑ Growing fast
Buyers who first researched online	68%	91%	↑ Digital-first
Average research window (weeks)	18	11	↓ Shorter
Intenders who test drove >1 brand	82%	54%	↓ Brand-loyal earlier
Metro vs regional intender mix	58 / 42	64 / 36	↑ More urban
Intenders open to non-legacy brands	31%	67%	↑ Open-minded

. Where Intenders Spend Research Time (Fictional)

Composition of a typical intender’s research hours across channels. Shifts since 2023 tell the story of where investment is now most effective.

Channel	Share of Research Time	YoY Shift
Long-form video (YouTube, CTV)	34%	+6pp
Short-form social (Reels, TikTok)	19%	+11pp
Brand-owned websites	14%	-3pp
Peer & community forums	12%	+2pp
Paid comparison sites	9%	-5pp
In-person dealer visits	7%	-8pp
Print & radio	5%	-3pp

. Strategic Observations (Fictional)

- First-time ute buyers are entering the segment five to seven years younger than a decade ago. Tone and imagery should no longer assume trade buyers are the primary audience.
- Short-form social now carries disproportionate influence in early-stage discovery. A single viral TikTok can outperform six months of always-on digital spend.
- Women are now the primary decision-maker in roughly a third of ute purchases — not just the “veto vote”. Creative casting and dealer training haven't caught up.

- Shorter research windows mean the brand needs to be present at the exact moment of intent, with clear pricing and an immediate next step.
- The dealership is still important — but as a place of validation, not discovery. By the time an intender arrives, they have usually already chosen.
- Regional buyers still over-index on community signal (events, dealer presence, peer trust). Don't cut this investment even as national metro spend rises.

. Investment Allocation Framework (Fictional)

A simple model for thinking about budget distribution across funnel stages for a challenger brand in this segment. Percentages are illustrative and would be tuned per campaign.

Funnel Stage	Suggested Budget	Primary Channels	Measurement Focus
Top (Awareness)	35%	Long-form video, CTV, social	Reach, unaided awareness
Mid (Consideration)	40%	Short-form social, influencer, search	Shortlist entry rate
Bottom (Conversion)	20%	Retargeting, comparison tools, dealer	Test drives, leads
Retention & Advocacy	5%	Owner community, referral programs	NPS, repeat purchase
